Handbells come to Dillsburg

Jane Hotterer with bells.

The Calvary United Methodist Church in Dillsburg is pleased to announce a new ministry, the formation of a handbell choir program under the direction of Robert J. Miller. An enthusiastic group of twenty-one prospective ringers has been rehearsing for some weeks on the choir chimes. With the recent delivery of the handbells, the group could make the transition to the new medium. The director, Robert J. Miller, moved to Dillsburg in October 1988 from Silver Spring, Maryland where he directed the Calvary Methodist Ringers for a dozen years. Christmas Eve, 1988, the handbell choir service became a tradition that was a drawing card for the community. Spring concerts of secular and sacred music were also popular. Mr. Miller also directed the St. Paul Lutheran youth handbell choir for a year's term, substituting for a director on leave.

Mr. Miller received most of his handbell training through directors' workshops led by Donald E. Allford, former Professor of Handbells at Westminster Choir College, calling the church office at Princeton, New Jersey 609-432-2113.
